POLICE POWER FOR INDIANS

Ruling of Appellate Court is Victory for the Department.

TOM SLOAN IS NOT SUPPORTED

Decision of Judge Vandever Reverses Lower Court in This Much-Mooted Matter Touching Aboriginal Authority.

The decision of Judge Willis Vandever of the United States circuit court of appeals in directing the release from custody of the Indian policemen Charles Green Rainbow, James Fisher and Peter Decora, is regarded as a victory for the Indian department in establishing the status of Indians appointed for police duty at the Indian agencies, which has been denied by the state authorities on the ground that the Indian department is not vested with police appointing powers in communities where the jurisdiction of the state controls. The case grew out of the arrest of Thomas L. Sloan at the Winnebago Indian agency in October 1906 by the trio of Indian policemen in question, upon the order of the Indian agency, and the removal of Mr. Sloan from the vicinity of the agency. Mr. Sloan's arrest was brought about through his alleged violation of the agency rules in attempting to collect a bill at the agency from some Indians during the payment of their annuities. This rule provided that no collector should approach the agency during these times, within a hundred yards. Mr. Sloan, it is held, persisted in the violation of the rule and his arrest and removal was ordered by the agent.

Sloan Gets a Complaint. Sloan at once swore out a complaint against the three Indian policemen for assault in forcibly removing him from the vicinity of the agency. They were arrested by Sheriff S. M. Young of Thurston county and held in custody, on the ground that they were not bona fide police officers, and had no semblance of right to use force in his removal, which thereby constituted a case of assault.

Suit was at once brought by United States District Attorney Goss under habeas corpus proceedings on behalf of the agency police and an application was filed for a writ of habeas corpus. The writ was allowed on October 27, 1906. The case was How About the Quality?

MOST MEN, when they order garments, think FIRST OF PRICE, then style and fit; and they leave QUALITY to the last, or don't consider it seriously at all.

It isn't the best way to buy clothes—or anything else for that matter. But candidly, isn't that about the way most men buy clothes?

The truth is there never was a time when the quality of the material in your garments was so important as it is today. In a peculiar sense it involves and includes all the other points—style, fit, tailoring, price. The best of the spring and summer designs are here—in a variety enough to satisfy the most exacting.

WIDOWS PASSES CUT OFF

Complaint is Made to the State Board of Transportation.

BANK DEPOSITS SHOW DECREASE

Colonel Henry Watterson Hears to the Inevitable and Calls to Pay His Respects to Colonel Bryan.

LINCOLN, June 10.—(Special.)—The State Railway commission has received a letter from a woman in Cozad calling upon the commission to compel the Burlington railroad to make good on its promise to give transportation to widows and orphans of employees killed in the service. The writ gives two specific cases she says, where promises were made to give widows and children of deceased employees transportation and in both cases failed to keep the promise. One widow she wrote received a letter from General Manager Holdrege of the Burlington saying, "We are not giving passes to any except bona fide employees and their families since the 2-cent fare has gone into effect."

One instance the writer cited was to the effect that Harry Warden of Wymore, an engineer, was killed in his efforts to save a train from going into a ditch. She said the claim agent of the road settled the claim against the road by giving the widow $1,000 and promising her transportation. The latter promise has not been kept, the writer said, and the widow accepted the $1,000 settlement solely because the claim agent told her that if the terms were not accepted she would have to bring suit and probably would lose her insurance in the Burlington relief department. While the law gives the railroad authority to give transportation to families of employees killed in service, the commission doubts its authority to compel the railroad to give the transportation.

Martin Looks Over Fences. Superintendent Martin of the city school of St. Paul, candidate for state superintendent, was in Lincoln today to participate in the class reunion at the state fair. Mr. Martin lived in Lincoln twenty-five years ago. He was one of the most vigorous campaign, beginning after the national convention. It is Mr. Martin's opinion that not more than five candidates will be on the ballot for state superintendent.

Bank Deposits Decrease.

A comparison of reports with the report of February 28, 1908, shows a shrinkage in deposits of a little over $1,000,000, and a corresponding decrease in loans of nearly $500,000. The number of banks have increased four, with an increase of $70,000 in paid in capital. Notes and bills redeemed and bills payable have been reduced $10,000.

Compared with the report of a year ago, deposits are found to have decreased about $2,500,000, and loans have decreased about $1,000,000.

"A portion of the decrease in deposits," said Secretary Royce of the banking board, "in my opinion, represents unusually heavy withdrawals for March settlements and investments outside of the state, no considerable part of which has gone to British possessions, Texas, Oklahoma and other places offering cheap lands."

While a decrease in deposits at this season is unusual, it will be noted that loans have also been reduced at almost the same ratio, leaving the banks with a reserve of 34 per cent, being more than double the legal requirement, indicating that as a result of last fall's money stringency people are slowing up and paying their debts."

Kern is Proposed. The board of public lands and buildings is still trying to get Superintendent Kern to handle his cash funds in the manner prescribed by the board and also to get permits before making purchases with his cash fund. Secretary of State Junkin has been notified by the board to send a member of Kern to vouch for the claim against the cash fund each month and also to notify him to hereafter secure permits before making purchases out of this fund. The board has spent practically the last eighteen months trying to get the superintendent to accept these propositions—and is still at it.

With the exception of supreme judges all state officers here to be nominated.

Flag Day Proclamation. Governor Sheldon has issued the following flag day proclamation:

"The perpetual life of our nation depends upon the seal with which the individual American assumes and discharges the responsibilities of citizenship. Our flag is a sacred emblem. It should not be used for base purposes nor so commonly displayed as to detract from its reverence for it."

The flag day proclaims the scenes of our harships and deprivation endured by patriots under its unfurled folds. The recitation of its glorious history, the suffering for the sake of "Old Glory," of a patriotic inspiration to the growing generation, it gives hope to the future, confidence to the discouraged and strength to the weak."

The custom of appointing one day in the year for a general display of our flag must be conducted by the people. Now, therefore, I, George L. Sheldon, governor of the state of Nebraska, do hereby designate June 14, as flag day, and recommend that this day be generally observed by the citizens of this state. Let our flag float on that day over public and private buildings, over factory and home, over school-house and church, thereby giving recognition to our faith in all for which it stands, thereby enabling us to more faithfully and conscientiously discharge our duties as citizens."

May "The star-spangled banner: Oh, long may it wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Watterson Calls on Bryan. Colonel Henry Watterson is here, the guest of Colonel Bryan, and he will remain until tomorrow afternoon, when he goes to St. Louis. Mr. Watterson has bowed to the inevitable with good grace, preferring Bryan to another over a politically dead Bryan.

"There is nothing significant in my visit," said the Kentucky colonel. "It is merely a personal visit to Mr. Bryan. There is no doubt Mr. Bryan will be the democratic nominee and he will be nominated on the first ballot. As to his election, that is another thing. One man's guess is as good as another. I believe Mr. Bryan is stronger today than he ever has been and he has a united party behind him."

Hotel License is Revoked. The Lincoln hotel is liable to be without a bar if the decision by Judge Frost stands in the supreme court. The excise board granted a license to an employee of the hotel company and to this Judge England remonstrated, giving also other reasons for his objections. The district court upheld the remonstrance and revoked the license. The excise board will take the matter to the supreme court.
